Legion Caravan Arrives in Nevada Friday Afternoon

Magnolia Delegation Will Arrive In Reno Late Saturday Afternoon

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 8.—With the roaring surf of the Pacific Ocean only a few days away, the Mississippi Legion caravan of floats, after almost three weeks of continuous parading through the states of Mississippi, Tennessee, Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and Nevada, will arrive in Winnemucca, Nevada, late Friday afternoon.

The caravan comes to Winnemucca from Elko, Nevada, where the local Legion post honored the members of the Mississippi party with a southern style banquet Thursday, duplicating as nearly as possible the dishes typical of Mississippi.

In its journey across the state the caravan has been accompanied by an escort of Nevada highway patrolmen, who have given the flotilla precedence over all other traffic on U. S. Highway 40.

Arriving in Reno, largest city of the state, Saturday, the Magnolia State delegation which is to head the world's largest parade in Los Angeles on September 20 will be greeted by representatives of Governor R. Korman and officials of the Reno Legion post.

Arrangements are being made for the members of the official party including Caravan Commander Walter Lee of Jackson and Miss Elaine Russell, personal representative of Governor Hugh White, to take part in a broadcast over station KOH.

The caravan proceeds from Reno to Sacramento, capital of California, where Governor Frank Merriam will extend a personal welcome to the group. San Francisco will be the first point on the Pacific ocean to be visited by the flotilla which arrives there next Tuesday. Legionnaires of the big Coast city are planning one of the most rousing ovations of the entire tour to greet the Mississippi delegation.

Nation's Speedmen To Attend Mid-South Fair Sept. 17

Heading-the List Of Speedmen Is Ray Gardner, Of Los Angeles, California

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 8.—Speedmen from all parts of the nation have requested entry blanks for the national circuit championship automobile races set to bring the thirty-first edition of the Mid-South Fair to a sensational climax Saturday, September 17.

"Interest among the racing men, both of the speedway and dirt track contingents, is running the highest in the history of gasoline competition at the fair," Frank Fuller, Secretary-Manager of the Memphis exposition stated early this week.

Backing up Manager Fuller's statement, the early arrival of signed entries for the September 17 motor events speaks well of the added interest occasioned by the increased purses at stake in this year's Mid-South Fair automobile races.

Heading the list of speedmen who have officially cast their goggles in the ring for a share of the purse money at stake is Ray Gardner, Los Angeles, California, dirt track and speedway star. Gardner is one of the survivors of the multiple car track crash occurring at the Tennessee State Fair at Nashville last year in which Howdy Cox met untimely death. Gardner will be at the wheel of the same record-holding 220 cubic inch Miller racing creation with which he has established track, state and sectional records from California to Florida and from the New England states to the deep South.

Other early entrants are L. J. "Foggy" Calloway, of Miami, Florida, Pietro Mocco, St. Louis, Missouri, Posey Reeves, Oklahoma City, Winn Fenstermaker, Minneapolis, and Wes Johnson of Kansas City.

Riverdale H. D. Club Met Sept. 1

The Riverdale Home Demonstration Club met September 1st at the home of Mrs. Ernest Staten. There were twenty-two ladies present.

Miss Elizabeth Jones, county librarian gave a most interesting talk on "Picture Appreciation" and displayed a number of attractive pictures.

Mrs. Barkley Coats, the club's delegate to "Farm and Home Week" at Mississippi State College, gave an interesting report of her trip.

Rook and Bridge were enjoyed during the recreational hour and Mrs. H. D. Lane was the winner of the bridge prize and Mrs. Claud Perry, the rook prize. The prizes were useful kitchen gadgets.

The hostess served a delectable salad course with punch to her guests.

500 Members Of Pi Kappa Alpha Attend Convention

Frank Horton, Of Grenada, Is A Member Of The Fraternity

College fraternities generally have junked horseplay and are centering their efforts on the more serious aspects of higher education, according to reports at the 70th anniversary convention of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, recently held in Los Angeles, California. It was declared here today by Mr. Frank Horton, local member of the fraternity.

The convention was attended by more than 500 members of Pi Kappa Alpha from throughout the country, including a large number of alumni representing the older members of the organization.

President Rufus B. von Klein Smid of the University of Southern California personally extended a Southern California welcome to the group and declared that the best days of college fraternities are ahead. He asserted that his university encouraged fraternities and looked to them for constructive aid in furthering American educational aims.

Convention visitors were entertained with numerous trips to points of interest in Southern California, including a day at Santa Catalina Islands, tours through Hollywood, Beverly Hills, Santa Monica and Pasadena. Many of the visitors visited the movie studios.

An outstanding event of the convention was a movie party at which Bob Hope, Paramount Pictures star, was master of ceremonies. Miss Florence George, blonde movie actress and former member of the Chicago Opera Company, who was recently named "Dream Girl of Pi K. A." was an honor guest at the party. Betty Grable, wife of Jackie Coogan and film beauty, was the guest of honor at another party, as was Jim Purvis, former Purdue All-American football player, and member of Pi Kappa Alpha. Joseph Bentonelli, another member of the fraternity and Metropolitan Opera tenor was the outstanding feature of the convention ball in the famed Coconut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel.

Dr. Freeman H. Hart, professor of history at Hampden-Sydney College, was elected president of the fraternity for the next two years. Pi Kappa Alpha has 78 chapters at principal colleges and universities throughout the country. The fraternity was founded in 1868 at the University of Virginia.

Cotton Industry Seek New Means For Use Of Cotton

Mid-South Fair Will Have Exhibit Called "King Cotton's Children"

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 8.—Governmental agencies, public-spirited citizens, and the entire cotton industry have combined their resources to discover and exploit new means of using the Southland's number one crop. Numerous and varied are the uses of cotton, however, few people realize what an important part the so-called by-products of the plant plays in American industry. The Mid-South Fair at Memphis, September 12 to 17, in an exhibit called "King Cotton's Children," will attempt to show many of these varied uses. Even the pen with which this article was originally written perhaps grew in its primitive state on some cotton plantation.

Unique is its illustration, the fountain pens of today are made largely from cotton, and the Mid-South Fair exhibit will illustrate among many other items, in a step by step manner the actual process showing how cotton is used in the manufacture of pens and pencils. In the hands of the DuPont chemists, the raw cotton, combined with sulphuric acid, chlorine and nitric acid, is converted into a substance called Pyroxylin, which is combined in a chemical process with alcohol, camphor, and dye to produce a product known as Radite, the plastic material of American origin from which the caps and barrels of pens, pencils, and some desk sets are made.

The Shaeffer Pen Company is contributing an exhibit of cotton by-products, showing the important part cotton plays in the manufacture of fountain pens and mechanical pencils. An interesting contest has been arranged by Perle & Lowenstein, who are conducting the pen exhibit at the Mid-South Fair.

This will be but one of the many illustrations of "King Cotton's Children."

Lloyd Ashford Gerard Murdered Saturday Night

Former Grenadian, and a Brother Of Frank T. Gerard, Sr.

Mr. Lloyd Ashford Gerard, a native of Grenada, was shot and mortally wounded about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night, September 3, by what is believed to have been a highwayman, as he got out of his car at his home on South Parkway, Memphis.

Mr. Gerard was shot through the abdomen, the bullet entering on the right, ranging downward, and out of his left side. He died a few minutes after in an ambulance enroute to the Methodist Hospital.

The Commercial Appeal carried the following news item concerning the shooting:

"A passerby said he heard Mr. Gerard plead, 'My God! Don't Shoot Me.' Almost immediately a single shot was fired. The witness saw a negro run from the yard. Police had only a meager description of the killer."

"Mrs. Carrie McKinnin Gerard, his wife, and a neighbor, Mrs. Carolyn Baker, were at the Gerard home at the time. They said they thought the shot was the backfire of an automobile and knew nothing of the tragedy until notified by neighbors."

"Mr. Gerard evidently had just driven under the porte cochere at his home and was stepping out of his auto, police said. His body was found lying on the ground near the porch. There was $50 in his pocket."

Mr. Gerard was born in Grenada, August 4, 1881, the son of Mr. Augustus and Mrs. Kate Ashford Gerard. After finishing high school here, he attended the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., and later Bowling Green Business College, Bowling Green, Kentucky.

After completing his business course, Mr. Gerard accepted a position with Potts and Jackson, Kosciusko, as bookkeeper and stenographer. Later on he became an employee of the Memphis Cotton Oil Company, Memphis and the Grenada Compress Company, Memphis. After quite a bit of business training he entered the gasoline and oil business, having installed the first underground gasoline tank in Memphis. He had made his home in Memphis for the past thirty-five years.

Mr. Gerard had farming interests in DeSoto County, Mississippi, and at one time was secretary and treasurer of the levee board of Northwest Mississippi. Mr. Gerard had devoted most of his time in the past several years to his farm and that of his son-in-law and was highly regarded by the labor which he handled, as attested by the thirty or more negroes attending his funeral.

Funeral services, conducted by Rev. C. S. Liles, Rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, Grenada, of which Mr. Gerard was a member, were held the following Monday morning, at 10:30 o'clock. Interment was in Forest Hill cemetery.

Among those from Grenada attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Doak, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Meek, Mrs. H. W. Alexander, Messrs E. L. Gerard, J. T. Thomas, W. D. Salmon, Charles Lockett, George M. Garner, W. K. Huffington, Harry Greenfield and Rice Lawrence.

Mr. Gerard is survived by his wife, Mrs. Carrie McKinnin Gerard, of Memphis; a daughter, Mrs. William Hoyt Austin, of Walls, Mississippi, and a brother, Frank T. Gerard, Sr., of Grenada.

Botelers To Have Booth At Fair

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Boteler will have a booth at the Mid-South Fair in Memphis September 12-17. They will emphasize the "live-at-home program." This booth will show the plan of management of their farm in growing crops. We feel very proud that Grenada county is having the only booth of this type from the State of Mississippi. If Mr. and Mrs. Boteler does not win first place they are honored enough by being asked for such an exhibit.

Series of County Farm Meetings

State College, Miss., Sept. 8—A series of county farm meetings to accelerate the winter cover crop campaign being conducted by state extension service specialists and county agents will be held through out the state from August 31 to October 3, E. H. White, state director of extension, announced.

Prevention of soil erosion and restoration of soil fertility by growing winter legumes on cultivated lands are primary objectives of the campaign.

A thick growth of winter legumes protects the land from heavy washing winter rains and adds large quantities of humus and nitrogen to the soil when turned under in the spring.

Seeding winter legumes counts as a soil-building practice under the agricultural conservation program and farmers can earn $1.50 per acre up to the full payment for the farm for seeding hairy vetch, Austrian winter peas, burr clover and other clovers.

The meetings will be in charge of the local county agents, and L. I. Jones, extension agronomist, will be the main speaker. He will give information on the best dates and rates of seeding, methods of planting, the value of applying limestone and phosphate, and other important information.

Sound motion pictures on soil conservation and the value of planting winter legumes will be shown at each of the meetings by Dan Howell, extension specialists in visual education.

The schedule of meetings is as follows: Aug. 31, Forrest county,

Sunrise School, 7:30 p. m.; Sept. 1, Perry county, Janice, 2 p. m.; Runnelstown, 7:30 p. m.; Sept. 2, Smith county, Pineville, 7:30 p. m.; Sept. 3, Choctaw county, Panhandle School, 7:30 p. m.; Sept. 5, Grenada, 2 p. m.; Sept. 5, Horn Lake, 7:30 p. m.; Sept. 6, Olive Branch, 7:30 p. m.; Sept. 7, Hickory Flat School, 7:30 p. m.; Sept. 8, Tippah county, Pine Grove, 7:30 p. m.

Bur Clover Advances To Favor In Trio Of Best Winter Legumes

Grows Successfully Anywhere With Fertilizer Required By Succeeding Crops and Reseeding Is Inexpensive

Though long recognized as valuable for pasture and soil building purposes, bur clover is now receiving recognition, however delayed it may be, as among the most promising of winter legumes for turning under during the early spring months in time for a succeeding crop.

Just when or how bur clover became a resident of Mississippi is shrouded in obscurity, but for generations it has been found in many sections of the state. Now, after years of effort to determine the best types of legumes for fall planting and to secure state-wide plantings of the desirable types, it develops that bur clover must be rated among the very best.

Cost of planting seed is the only real drawback to the planting of winter legumes on practically every cultivated acre. State farmers have found during recent years that the cost is repaid many fold in increased yields from crops which follow and the growing of winter legumes has increased remarkably from year to year. Nevertheless, expense, is expense, and here lies the secret of the increasing popularity of bur clover. The initial planting is still expensive, but after that the expense is negligible.

By centering attention on a seed patch the first year, every farmer can be assured of an abundant supply of seed thereafter. Says J. W. Willis, in Extension Circular No. 101, seeding in this instance should be at the rate of about 20 bushels in the bur per acre, or about double the regular planting rate and should be supplemented by phosphate fertilizer and lime at the time of planting. Harvesting may be done after the crop has matured without special equipment, and at a cost of a few cents per bushel.

"Numerous experiments and the experience of thousands of farmers in southern states," stated J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture, "have demonstrated that customary crops of cotton and corn can be increased 50 percent or more the first year and can be doubled in about three years by following a policy of planting and plowing under fertilized winter legumes every year. Bur clover is one of the most valuable of the winter legumes. Differing from the others, bur clover seeds should be planted during September, or about a month earlier, so that now is the time to plan and plant for another year."

On Mississippi Farms

(By F. J. Hurst)
Mississippi farmers will receive approximately $13,265,000 in price adjustment payments under the 1937 AAA farm program, T. M. Patterson, administrative officer in charge, AAA, Jackson, announced. The payments will be made from an appropriation of $130,000,000. The average payment rate will be 2.89 cents per pound.

The AAA has officially determined that price adjustment payments authorized for 1937 cotton producers will be made on a maximum of 60 percent of the 1937 base cotton production of farms for which applications are submitted.

The application forms for the price adjustment payments are now available to producers at the county offices and farmers are filing their applications at a rapid rate. Many counties have almost completed this work and 40,000 applications for an equal number of farms and including about 100,000 different producers have been received in the state office. First applications for payments are expected to be approved early in September with the bulk of payments going to farmers in September, October, and November.

With a small prospective cotton crop together with a low price, it will be necessary for farmers to conserve cash income from cotton and reduce expenses for feeds and other products that can be grown on the farm. Oats is one of the best crops that can be grown on the farm. They occupy the land during the winter time and protect the soil from washing. They do not require cultivation and labor-saving machinery can be used in planting and harvesting.

The oat harvest comes at a time when feed supplies usually run low, and a good supply of oats makes it possible to feed a better balanced ration to all kinds of livestock.

The Mississippi Experiment Station recommends that oats be planted at the rate of 2 to 3 bushels per acre from October 1 to 15 and fertilized with 150 to 200 pounds of nitrogenous fertilizer per acre in late winter or early spring.

The highest yielding varieties include Red Rust Proof strains, Fulgrain, Hastings 100 bushel, Nortex, and Ferguson 922. Fulgrain, Fulghum, and Kanota are about 10 days earlier than the Red Rust Proof strains but produce lower yields.

One of the most important jobs on the farm is harvesting the cotton crop as rapidly and as clean as possible after the cotton has been open long enough to dry. Studies made by the Federal Cotton Ginning Laboratory at Stoneville show that if green, damp, or wet cotton is ginned without drying, the quality may be reduced as much as one or two grades, which in dollars and cents may range from $1 to $10 or more per bale, depending on the moisture content and staple length of the cotton and prevailing premiums or discounts. Undue exposure in the field results in cotton becoming discolored, dull and trashy, and brings heavy losses to farmers. Wet cotton should be spread out on tarpaulins or sheets and sundried at least eight hours.

September Garden Guide

(By Lottie Wood, H. D. Agent)
Cool Season Crops that Endure Frost: The seeds of beets, carrots, lettuce, mustard, garden peas, radishes, spinach and turnips can be planted now to supply fresh vegetables during late fall and early winter. The root crops remain in a good state of preservation if left in the garden. Remember to make this fall planting of beets, carrots and parsnips along the side of the garden to permit winter plowing of the main body of the garden for soil improvement, insect control and early planting.

BEETS: Detroit Dark Red, Crosby's Egyptian and Blood Turnips are good varieties. Beets may be planted up to September 15. Plant the seed in rows 2 feet apart and when 3 inches high thin out to 3 inches apart. Soaking the seed overnight in water will hasten the germination of best seed. Soaked seed must be planted immediately in moist soil and the soil firmed about the seed.

CARROTS: Cantenay, Denver's Half Long, Moses Bunching and Imperator are good varieties. Carrots may be planted until October 1. Thoroughly prepared soil will greatly improve the quality of roots produced. The seed should be planted in drills 1 1/2 feet apart and covered 1/2 inch deep. When they are 2 inches high they should be thinned out to 4 inches apart. If you are temporarily tired of carrots served in the usual ways, plan to drink carrot juice when your fall carrots mature.

LETTUCE: Big Boston and New York are two desirable head type varieties and Black Seeded Simpson is a desirable leaf type. Low damp soil that is well supplied with fertilizer is best suited for this crop. Lettuce must be grown rapidly to give it size, crispness, and edible quality. In hot weather when it is difficult to get lettuce seed to germinate,

Cotton Best For Auto Tires

Macon, Ga., Sept. 7—Taking issue with an article appearing in a recent issue of Time Magazine to the effect that synthetic rayon cord for automobile tire fabric might displace cotton and therefore lose for cotton farmers one of their largest markets, Wm. D. Anderson, President of Bibb Manufacturing Company, one of the largest producers of cord fabric in the world, pointed to recent developments in the processing of cotton, which, he stated, produced a Heat Resistant Cord, far superior to any synthetic type. "Therefore", he added, "there is little likelihood that the consumption of cotton in the manufacture of automobile tires will ever be displaced by any other material."

"The new Heat Resistant Cord we are now producing," said Mr. Anderson, "outlives and outlasts any rubber yet compounded for automobile tires. Cotton fiber is as strong as steel. The tensile strength of cotton cord depends upon the resistance to slippage of the individual fibers. Through a revolutionary new principle in processing cotton, a way has been discovered to soften the material gums and waxes inherent in every cotton fiber and to fuse the cotton fibers with these gums and waxes as they are rehardened so that they become set and bounded to a degree never before attained. The new process provides a cord which retards to a remarkable degree the generation of heat in an automobile tire, but even more important, this new process produces a cord which maintains uniform tensile strength under high temperature necessarily penetrated in any tire when subjected to hard use and heavy loads at sustained high speeds. Under operating conditions this new type Heat Resistant Cord is 25% stronger than ordinary cord and flex breaks have been eliminated."

"With this increased strength comes a more compact, lighter cord, which enables the tire manufacturer to secure the strength and safety of a 6-ply tire with a 4-ply construction. Synthetic cord (rayon) loses a great part of its tensile strength upon contact with moisture. The Heat Resistant Cord prevents 'tire growth' and tread cracks, which cause premature tire failure," Mr. Anderson explained. Leading manufacturers are now using the new Heat Resistant Cord, especially in the manufacture of heavy duty truck tires.

"The future problem of the Tire Industry is not to find a substitute for cotton," Mr. Anderson concluded, "but to develop new rubber compounds, which will last as long as the Heat Resistant Cord fabric now at the command of the industry."

germination may be hastened and improved by placing moistened lettuce seed in moistened cloths in the icebox for several days before sowing, and then sowing in well moistened soil.

Digging Sweet Potatoes In September: Common practice dictates that sweet potatoes be dug just prior to killing frost. Careful observation discloses that they be dug during the latter half of September with little or no reduction of yield. This allows the planting of a winter cover crop for soil building purposes.

Control Of Mice Advised

State College, Miss., Sept. 8—Mice are likely to cause more damage as cold weather comes on and they begin moving into buildings in search of shelter and food, advises Robert B. Dean, Leader of Rodent Control for the U. S. Biological Survey in Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, Tennessee, and Arkansas. There is probably no better way to control mice than by the use of the common two-for-a-nickel snap traps, says Mr. Dean who suggests the following instructions:

Plenty of traps should be used—for the average home at least 6 and preferably 12 or more, because mice are very prolific and under favorable conditions may multiply faster than one or two traps can catch them. Bait and reset all traps each evening and place them in such a manner that mice in following their natural runways along walls and behind objects will pass over the trigger.

Fresh bait is essential and should be tied securely to the trigger of the trap. Fresh bread crust or cracker with butter and peanut butter are dependable baits, but should be varied with others such as cake, cheese, dried bacon, and nut meats. Very often all the mice in a house can be caught in a few nights and frequently no more may be seen for several weeks or months.

For the control of mice on a large scale, poisoning is sometimes advisable. Directions for poisoning mice may be obtained from Leader Rodent Control, State College, Miss.

WPA BUILT BOONEVILLE SCHOOL TO BE DEDICATED

Mr. R. B. Wall, Mississippi WPA Deputy Administrator in Charge, today announced that the WPA has just completed its 118th school building. The project just finished is the Booneville High School, built by the WPA to replace the old building damaged by the cyclone of 1936.

The dedication ceremony was held in Booneville, Monday, September 5th. Mr. R. L. Anderson, Director of the WPA Division of Education, was the principal speaker.

Mr. Wall pointed out that nearly $3,000,000 of federal funds have been spent on Educational buildings by the WPA since the beginning of the program in 1935. In addition, sponsors of these building projects have contributed about $750,000. Sponsors' funds are used principally for materials.

In addition to the 118 new school buildings already completed, the WPA has also repaired 176 school buildings, built 31 teachers' homes and repaired 12 others, Mr. Wall said.

Library News

Daily 12-1, 2-5.
Saturday 9-12, 2-5.
Please note the change in hours effective September 12. After this date the library will NOT be open after 5 p. m.

On August 1, the County Workers met in the main library for an all day session. Signs were painted and distributed to the County Reading centers. The association and discussion of common problems were very beneficial and the box lunches were so good that they decided to meet in this style again soon.

The Holcomb Library will soon be moved to the Holcomb Cafe building and we hope that this will be more accessible.

Our mending project is progressing famously. It is turning out thirty rebound books per week besides much minor mending and poster work. One new worker has been assigned to the department.

We are exceedingly proud and fortunate in having such a well managed mending unit and wish that more people could see and realize what is being done here.

The library has been lucky to buy twenty-six books at the Grenada College Library. A Webster's New International Dictionary and stand is among those books bought and we are most delighted to have it and it is already being used.

Requisition has been made for a colored WPA worker for their library unit but we can't obtain this assignment until the county quota is reopened.

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF GRENADA COUNTY AND CITY OF GRENADA

GRAND JURY FOREMAN NOT BACKING UP

In an open letter, addressed to the editor of The Grenada Sentinel and citizens of Grenada County, Hon. H. J. Ray, foreman of the Grand Jury at July term of court, in answer to resolution passed by the board of supervisors at their August meeting wherein they censured the grand jury for criticising the manner in which the board had handled the business of the county and charged that the Grand Jury's report was prompted by political propaganda, had this to say:

"There is nothing in this report that is not contained in the State Auditor's report, signed by him and filed with the Chancery Clerk. This is a public record and every citizen has a right to call for and read it and I think it the duty of every citizen to do so.

"Why criticise the Grand Jury; if this Board wants to clear their skirts, why don't they deny the items mentioned and prove them false by their own records?

"They criticise the Grand Jury for not naming any individuals or bringing indictments. They should thank the Grand Jury for being so lenient. And, further, if they prefer indictments, it might not be too late for some Grand Jury to act, further or maybe better, the Bondsmen could be given a copy of this report, and let them exonerate the Board with the State Auditor.

"Personally, I like all members of the board and consider them my friends, but in view of the State Auditor's report, think they have gone a bit too far in this criticism of the Grand Jury.

"The Board criticised the Grand Jury for not mentioning names; I am wondering why they were not so charitable as to mention the names of the Grand Jurors who were playing politics?

"The Grand Jury presented proof in its report with reference to the Board; I am just wondering if the Board will have the proof to submit of the Grand Jury playing politics, when these twenty men and other citizens appear before them and demand it?

"I DARE THE BOARD TO GO ON RECORD STATING THE ITEMS MENTIONED IN THE STATE AUDITOR'S REPORT TO BE UNTRUE AND THAT HE FALSIFIED THEM.

"UNLESS A CHANGED ATTITUDE BY THE BOARD IMMEDIATELY, A COPY OF THIS RESOLUTION AND REPLY WILL BE FORWARDED THE BONDSMEN, THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY AND THE CIRCUIT JUDGE OF THIS DISTRICT.

"IF A JUDGE WILL NOT PROTECT HIS OWN GRAND JURY, HE MIGHT AS WELL CLOSE THE COURT."

Mr. Ray has demanded "a changed attitude of the board". In effect, he demanded that the board pass another resolution, and spread it on the minutes, retracting its resolution wherein was charged that that part of the Grand Jury's report censuring the Board was prompted by political propaganda and as such was not justified.

The board opened its regular September meeting on Monday of this week and recessed to meet again, Monday, September 12. No resolution was adopted. At least none is reflected in their minute book. However, a resolution was prepared and submitted to Mr. Ray, but he very pointedly and emphatically declared it unacceptable to him.

While we have not seen this resolution, we will bet dollars to doughnuts that Mr. Ray had good grounds for rejecting it. We are of the opinion that it was merely a conglomeration of words with the idea of "beating the devil around the bush". The "grapevine" is that this resolution was considered by the board behind closed doors and that it was necessary to send for ONE member before the discussion was opened. If this be true, why was it necessary to discuss public matters in private? Why was it necessary for them to consider a second resolution regarding this matter? Were they in error in passing their original resolution wherein they criticised the Grand Jury's report?

Gentlemen of the Board, we have had experience with Mr. Ray, we have borrowed money from him, we have tried to borrow money from him and know when he says no, he means no. The resolution submitted to him will not be accepted. We suggest that you take the easiest way out.

OUR REWARD STILL UNCLAIMED

No one has claimed the reward of TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($25.00) IN CASH WITH A THREE YEARS SUBSCRIPTION TO THE SENTINEL THROWN IN which we offered in last week's issue of the Sentinel to the person furnishing us the first written answer bearing his signature (the answer must be correct and must be substantiated with proof) to the following question:

Can anyone tell us why members of the Board of Supervisors have made purchases of grease and oil from a foreign concern (a firm not engaged in business in Grenada County) at 6 to 10 cents per pound and 25 to 50 cents per gallon higher than like products could have been, and can be had from local concerns?

This money is on deposit in Grenada Bank, Grenada, Grenada County, Mississippi, to the credit of The Grenada Sentinel Reward Fund and we sincerely wish someone would answer the above question. If we let it stay on deposit too long the bank might want to charge us carrying charges.

GAINING ON DEATH

During the first six months of this year, 3,670 automobile deaths were prevented in this country! That is based on a comparison of motor vehicle deaths in the first half of 1938 as against the same period in 1937. The decline in fatalities that began last November carried through encouragingly into July.

So far so good. But, as the National Safety Council points out, "This is no time to quit in our fight for safety. This is just the beginning." We've won a partial victory. Unrelenting effort on the part of every motorist, pedestrian, traffic judge and law enforcement officer is needed if the victory is to be ultimately complete.

Some of the most dangerous driving months lie ahead. Traffic during September is always heavy. And with the coming of the rains, snow and ice, plus the shorter daylight hours of fall and winter, motoring presents new and difficult hazards. There will be no time for standing still and praising past achievements in safety, until December 31 has passed, and the figures are all in.

A saving of 3,670 lives is a magnificent thing. And it shows that traffic accidents, the pessimists to contrary, can be sharply reduced. During the first half of this year, there was more and better organized community and state safety work than ever before. We have gradually learned that sporadic safety campaigns solve no problem, and that permanence and continuity of effort are vital. We are learning what courteous, "fix-less" law enforcement can do. And we are also learning the excellent results that follow better traffic engineering and scientific traffic control.

You're one of the soldiers in this fight against death. The country needs your help. Keep up the good work—and make it still better.

FIFTY MILLION FRENCHMEN CAN BE WRONG

The Federal wage and hour law is about to go into effect. It decrees that no man engaged in the production of goods for interstate commerce shall work more than the prescribed maximum hours per week nor receive less than a prescribed minimum of pay.

Very few people will be affected by the wage provision. More will be affected by the hour clause. In that connection, there is perhaps an important lesson in the recent failure of the French 40-hour week law. The government of France found that its industries could not produce all the goods required in the 40-hour week, so Premier Daladier asked the abandonment of the 40-hour limit.

Further, the French workingman appears to have gained little, if anything; from the shortened work-week. His added hours of leisure without reduction in earnings has been offset by higher living costs. In brief, nobody gained and many suffered.

We hope America's experiment with wage and hour legislation will not result in higher living costs (they are too highly elevated by "tax-jacks" now) but it is going to be difficult to escape reaching the same conclusion as our cousins across the sea, that—

The way to have more is to produce more.

THE DOOM OF DEMOCRACY

If it is established in the Mexican instance that a Latin American Government can arbitrarily confiscate the property of American companies and American investors without paying for it fully and promptly, this will give collectivists in those countries such a powerful weapon that collectivist policies, whether fascist or communistic, will become almost general throughout Latin America. And that will mean economic retrogression of a kind and to an extent that will affect the prosperity of the entire Western Hemisphere and even of the Old World, it will spell the doom of democracy in many countries.—The Texas Weekly.

State-Wide Meet September 12th

R. West, president of Grenada County Farm Bureau announced here Wednesday that notice has been received of a special state-wide Farm Bureau membership meeting to be held at Jackson on September 12th.

This county is expected to send a good delegation to the meeting at Jackson where consideration will be given to certain changes in the charter and by-laws of the State Farm Bureau organization. The fall membership campaign of the farm bureau will begin on September 21, with the annual meeting to be held at Jackson on December 12.

The next convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation will be held at New Orleans December 12-15, and many delegates from Mississippi are expected to attend.

Ransom E. Aldrich, of Benton County, state Farm Bureau president, announced that the special meeting was called for September 12th at the request of various county organizations.

Inspection Service Now Available For Growers of Sweet

Grading to Standards Necessary For Marketing Provided Under New State Law.

Shipping point inspection and grade certification of sweet potatoes at a cost no longer prohibitive, is announced by J. C. Holton, commissioner of agriculture, effective immediately and for the new crop.

The inspection service, regarded as a virtual necessity for the marketing of fruits and vegetables, has not heretofore been available for sweet potatoes except at prohibitive cost. By act of the Legislature of 1938 an appropriation was made so that shippers outside of the present commercial district may secure the inspection service at reasonable cost. This service is already in effect in the hay producing districts, and is now available to growers and shippers of sweet potatoes at a maximum cost of $4.00 per carload, and with downward graduation in event ten cars or more are shipped weekly.

"I hope that growers and shippers of sweet potatoes may avail themselves of this service," stated Commissioner Holton, "as they are already doing in the instance of other commodities. Thus far in 1938, 87% of the cabbage shipped have been inspected, 96% of the green peas, 98% of the Irish potatoes, and 100% of the tomatoes. Growers and shippers used the inspection service because as the legal measuring stick of quality, it affords protection to buyer and seller alike.

"Mississippi ranks at the forefront in the production of sweet potatoes, usually harvesting about one-tenth the production of the United States, and usually ranking about third in the production among the highest producing states.

"The commercial marketings of sweet potatoes, however, is a different story altogether. During the present season through August 20, only 22 carloads of sweet potatoes have moved from Mississippi. During the same period shipments from Tennessee totaled 55 carloads, from Louisiana 263 carloads, and from Alabama 294 carloads. Altogether last season there were shipped from Tennessee 980 carloads, from Louisiana 3,109 carloads, from Alabama 273 carloads, and from Mississippi only 57 carloads. One of the many reasons why our state leads in production but lags in marketing is the lack of uniform grading and packing. With the help of other agricultural agencies our shipping point inspection service is in position to render an invaluable service towards the day when Mississippi may rank among the leading shippers of sweet potatoes."

Letter From Dr. Felix J. Underwood

Sent to Each County Health Officer:

In the "Rules and Regulations governing Communicable Diseases in the State of Mississippi," on page 19, under tetanus is found: "(a) Due to the fact that tetanus infection is commonly found to be in animal manure and soil contaminated with same, the holding of horse shows and other livestock exhibits on athletic fields shall be prohibited."

During the past five years, two deaths among high school boys have occurred from tetanus due to injuries received on athletic fields where horse shows and other livestock exhibits have been held.

Any health officer permitting the use of athletic fields in his county for such purposes is considered derelict in his duty in the protection of the public health of the citizens of that county. And, any group staging a horse show or livestock exhibit, knowing that this is in violation of the law, is needlessly endangering the lives of school children whose engagement in athletics should be protected.

With best wishes, I am
Sincerely yours,
Felix J. Underwood, M. D.

Debt Adjustment Group Will Meet

W. W. Whitaker, of Grenada, chairman of the Grenada County Farm Debt adjustment committee, announced today that a regular session of that body would be held at the FSA office in Grenada on September 15, 1938, at 10 a. m. The committee meets regularly to advise with the burdened farmers who face the possibility of foreclosure or impairment of assets in an effort to work out new solutions that will place debt structure on a sound basis again and benefit both creditor and debtor. The service is performed by committeemen on a voluntary basis and there is no cost or obligation attached. Only worthy debtors who are doing their honest best to meet their obligations are assisted.

The Farm Administration county supervisor, who is secretary of the committee, should be contacted for further information.

Jim Bull Starts Ball Rolling

Legislator Jim Bull really started the ball to rolling in a big way in "The Buy Now For Better Business Campaign" now under way in Grenada.

Mr. Bull spent $600.00 for the installation of a Butane Gas System and improving his home other ways.

If more of those who have money will do likewise there would be many more jobs created.

URGES SAFETY IN SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION

(By J. S. Vandiver)

As schools are beginning to open for a new session, we wish again to call to the attention of the teachers, trustees, patrons, and pupils the importance of safety. We wish especially, to emphasize safety in connection with our school transportation system.

Each day approximately 130,000 pupils will be transported to and from school on school buses. We are very happy to note that a great improvement has been made during this year in the type of transportation equipment used. However, unless every precaution possible is exercised, there is always danger that pupils will be injured on the transportation routes.

The law and the rules and regulations set up by the State Board of Education provide that the driver of every transportation vehicle shall be a person of good moral character and competent to perform the duties incumbent upon him as caretaker of the pupils on the vehicle. One of the regulations adopted by the State Board of Education is that no person shall be allowed to drive a school truck who partakes of strong drink. The county school board and the county superintendent of education have the right and are required under the rules to discharge any driver who violates the law or the rules and regulations set up by the State Board.

We believe that the strict enforcement of these rules and regulations will mean much toward insuring the safety of the boys and girls of our state. A careless act of a school bus driver may result in serious injury or death of the pupils on his truck.

We wish to insist on the one hundred percent cooperation of pupils, teachers, trustees, parents, and truck drivers in this great problem of school transportation as well as other matters dealing with our great public school program.

Fall Examination For White Teachers

(By J. S. Vandiver)

The regular fall examination for white teachers will be held in the office of the county superintendent of education in each county on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 1, 2, and 3. The examination for negro teachers will be held on the same days, one week later, September 8, 9, and 10.

The law provides that every teacher who receives part or all of his salary from public funds must hold a license valid for the year he teaches. Most of the teachers of the state have a license issued either on college work or are exempt because they have taught five years on a first grade certificate. Any teacher who does not hold a license and expects to teach should report to the county superintendent's office on the days mentioned above.

Applicants for a license by examination must take the examination either in their home county or in the county where they expect to teach. Questions for these examinations are prepared by the State Board of Examiners and sent direct to the county superintendent. We wish to urge the county superintendents and the county board of examiners to conduct these examinations according to law and in a fair and impartial manner.

During the 1938 Extraordinary Session of the Mississippi Legislature there were 227 general, local and private bills and resolutions passed by the lawmakers. Several measures, besides the Homestead Exemption Laws are of interest, and in my article this week I will explain a few of them. House Bill No. 68, amends Chapter 298 of the Regular 1938 Session, and provides that on Tuesday after the third Monday in March 1939, and each year thereafter, the commissioner of election of the respective counties of the state, shall meet at the office of the registrar and carefully revise the poll books. Under this amendment the commissioners of election are required to revise the poll books annually, commencing with 1939. For this service House Bill 69 provides that the commissioners shall receive $3.00 per day to be paid from the general fund of the county. This amendment brings the revising of the poll books in line with the law that requires poll tax to be paid annually, and will always keep the poll book up-to-date.

Another law of the recent extraordinary session is the law to protect lands owned by the state from corporations and non-resident aliens. This will prevent large corporations, and non-residents of the state, from buying up large tracts of state owned lands, cutting the timber thereon, and then abandoning them and let them go back the second time to the state, after their value has been depreciated. The law reads as follows: "Neither a corporation (except as herein provided) nor a non-resident alien, nor any association of persons composed in whole or in part of non-resident aliens, shall directly or indirectly, purchase or become the owner of any of the State lands; and every patent issued in contravention hereof shall be void." However, the law takes care of banking corporations with the following proviso: "Provided, however, that a banking corporation owning such tax forfeited lands or holding a mortgage or deed of trust thereon at the time of the sale to the State and whose mortgage or deed of trust is still in force and effect, may purchase such lands, regardless of acreage, owned by it as aforesaid or on which it held a mortgage or deed of trust; provided, further that in event of a purchase by such corporation as a mortgagee such lands shall be held for the benefit of the mortgagor subject to all the terms and conditions of the mortgage or deed of trust held by the purchasing banking corporation and upon payment of the debt secured by such mortgage or deed of trust, together with interest and incidents, such banking corporation shall in that event convey such lands to the original mortgagor, his heirs or assigns."

The extraordinary session of the Mississippi Legislature passed two Senate Concurrent Resolutions, numbered 7 and 8, repealing Section 269, and amending Section 270 of the Mississippi Constitution. This, of course will require that the qualified electors pass on these proposed amendments to the constitution at the general election constitution at the general election will be held on the first Tuesday, after the first Monday in November, 1939, in accordance with Section 273 of the Mississippi Constitution. Section 269 and 270 are what are known as the Mortmain statutes, and the changes make it possible for lands to be bequeathed to charitable and religious institutions, organizations, corporations, and societies under certain conditions as laid out in the amendments. These proposed amendments will be published in the newspapers of Mississippi by the Secretary of State, prior to the 1939 election, as provided in the statutes.

Mississippi's WPA rolls reached a new peak with the employment of 41,118 persons on August 17. The highest previous peak had been in March, 1936, when 41,031 persons were employed. 4,874 persons have been added to the rolls since July 1. These new workers have, for the most part, been people with farming backgrounds. Following the Administrations project plans, and Mr. Hopkins recent discussions at Memphis, Tenn. plans have been laid for the rapid employment of farmers and farm laborers during the lay-by season, as a means of supplementing their annual income.

The next letting of the State Highway Department will be held on September 13, and will involve more than one million dollars. Included in the project are 65 miles of paving on U. S. Highway 82, which runs from the Alabama line, east of Columbus, through to Greenville. The jobs to be let call for paving between Starkville and Winona. Also to be let is an underpass on State 25, under the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, at Crawford, near Columbus in Lowndes county. The low bidder on the underpass will be given 125 working days to complete same, and the bid also calls for a quarter mile of paving on each side of the underpass.

Under a bill passed by Congress and signed by the President, $965,000,000 was made available to aid localities in constructing needed public works. The WPA is empowered to make grants of 45 percent of the estimated cost to enable construction to begin at once on these projects. Under certain conditions the WPA will also make loans to finance all or part of the remaining 55 percent. Through July 25 allotments had been made on 25 such projects in Mississippi, and grants totaling $2,147,229 had been made, and in addition $314,900 in loans. Applications are given priority in the order they are received, and the deadline for filing is September 30, 1938, and construction work must be started by January 1, 1939. Any Mississippi locality desiring to get one of these projects should get in touch with Howard T. Cole, PWA Regional Director, Atlanta, Ga., at once.

According to National Emergency Council for Mississippi, Hon. Dennis Murphree, state director, Mississippi had, on July 31, 1938, a total enrollment of 6,315 junior CCC boys enrolled in CCC camps located in the United States. This number of enrolled juniors gives a monthly income of approximately $157,875.00 to the Mississippi families of these enrolled boys.

The Employment Service of Mississippi is directing special efforts to furnishing Mississippi job seekers for work on cotton plantations during the picking season. Persons having any experience at cotton picking are being urged to register with one of the Mississippi Employment Service's offices. Planters desiring pickers are instructed to visit an office in person and describe the terms under which their labor is hired.

W. F. Bond, commissioner of the State Department of Public Welfare, in a recent statement says: "Under the new program, the WPA has in mind to make it possible for the small needy farmer to work on government projects in off seasons to supplement his income. We think this a good idea. Will say, however, that with only one paid worker in most of the counties, whose first responsibility is to the needy aged, the needy blind, and those in need of commodities, we cannot make much headway in certifying additional people without extra help from the WPA. The WPA authorities have said that they would be glad to give the county welfare agents additional help where necessary. In some counties, boards of supervisors have helped the matter along considerably." Dr. Bond, in concluding his statement, makes this appeal: "We are asking the cooperation of all parties concerned in this emergency program. The State Department of Public Welfare voluntarily offered to help in the certification as a service to the people for under the law it is not a part of our duty and our agents get no pay for this work."

The Mississippi Advertising Commission, and the Mississippi Industrial Commission, acting jointly, last week shipped to Hugh White, secretary of the National Farm Chemurgic Conference, 1200 copies each of the booklets "Introducing King Chemurgy," and "The Realm of King Chemurgy." (The Hugh White mentioned here is not Governor Hugh White, of Mississippi, but Hugh White, President of the National Farm Chemurgic Conference, of New York). Distribution of these pamphlets from Mr. White's New York office to members of the conference was begun on Saturday, August 27th, at the time the first advertisement of the Advertising Commission appeared in Time Magazine.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 1—People are saying that the passage of Labor Day will be the time to start feeling the improvement—not just reading about it. So far there aren't even paper profits; just statistics; but plenty of optimism.

Europe's gravest political crisis since 1914, of which most Americans seem blissfully unaware, shows signs of multiplying the economic strain over there to near-breaking point. In Britain, business activity is declining, the French economy is doing more precarious tight-rope walking, and no right-minded economist or banker could have been persuaded to believe five years ago that Germany and Italy could possibly have lasted this long without toppling over into the place reserved for economic beretics.

The results, so far, of the various state primaries are inconclusive. To date, the Presidential purge has been a pretty tame affair. It has its "triumphs" and rebuffs, which have more or less cancelled each other, but it may be different when the futures of Senators George and Tydings and Representative O'Connor are revealed. The leader of the democratic party is really speaking his mind about these three. The next Congress, the seventy-sixth, will be the last for Mr. Roosevelt to lead, or to scold, as the case may be—assuming that the third term talk is just talk—and much remains to be done.

Three gentlemen who should know better made the headlines last week by saying that they are glad they never got to be president and tickled that they were beaten.

Seems to us that the Messrs. Hughes, Davis and Landon are trying to tell the present incumbent of that high office that he showed poor taste in winning the last election.

Now that the Dies House Committee investigating un-American activity has heard the awful testimony showing Shirley Temple's aid to the Communists, the committee has asked the administration for help in unmasking other equally dangerous citizens.

Congressman Dies is providing the best entertainment in Washington today. Elderly ladies and Government employees spending the hot summer days in the Capital will vouch for that statement. Mr. Dies, who was opposed for renomination in Texas by the C. I. O., won in spite of the organization's efforts to defeat him. But, his reason for stamping John Brophy a Communist brought the audience their best laugh of the week.

Brophy, a C. I. O. labor leader, is one of the most active of Catholic laymen in his church. His two daughters are nuns, and a son is preparing for the priesthood—all of which undoubtedly stamps the man a dangerous Bolshevik.

TIME TO RAT-PROOF CORN CRIBS

State College Miss., Sept. 8—The cost of rat-proofing the corn crib is more than returned in property saved within the first year on the average farm. An unprotected crib is the social center and the food house for all the rats in the neighborhood. Within these places their numbers increase by immigration and by the rearing of young, and their depredations always extend beyond the corn in the crib. But in a rat-proof crib the corn is protected and the rats are far less likely to congregate in that vicinity.

Of all the buildings on the average farm the corn crib is usually in greatest need of rat-proofing, and now is the time to build the rats out while the crib is empty and before this year's crop is gathered. One of the cheapest methods where conditions are suitable is to place the crib on posts that give a clearance underneath of at least thirty inches. The supporting posts are covered with sheet metal, or are protected at the tops with metal discs extending at least nine inches out from the posts.

Underwater Farms Make Coast Capital Of Seafood Industry

Gigantic undersea farms yield Mississippi rich harvests never revealed in agricultural inventories. They are cultivated by the state's most picturesque farmers, men who go down to the sea in ships for harvesting, men who follow the most adventurous calling of all Mississippians.

They literally rake the ocean floor for buried treasure. The submarine home of members of the crustacean family is the nappy hunting ground for these intense men of the mist who have made the Mississippi Gulf Coast the oyster and shrimp canning center of the world.

Their industry's development is one of the most colorful chapters in Mississippi's history. Long known as the nation's greatest shrimp and oyster area, the Mississippi Coast's outlying treasure chests of seafood now stand on the threshold of their greatest period of development.

Although Mississippians at present supply nearly half of the oysters canned in this country, officials of the United States Bureau of Fisheries believe they have only scratched the surface.

They point to projects in which the WPA has been repopulating natural beds and planting new fields. One new field alone, in their opinion, is capable of producing 5,000,000 barrels of oysters a year—about five times the amount canned in the nation annually and about ten times the 1935-36 production of 534,512 barrels on the Mississippi Coast, which was itself below the average annual production of 700,000 barrels.

One project last year planted 1,200,000 barrels of seed oysters and shells on 10,170 acres of depleted reefs and 2,670 acres of new reefs in Mississippi Sound.

The state's Seafood Commission during the 1935-37 period planted 394,897 barrels of seed oysters and shells over an area of 7,400 underwater acres.

The last annual report of the Bureau of Fisheries, covering the 1935 season, showed a Mississippi pack of 223,532 cases of oysters valued at $920,598. This compares with a total United States pack of 525,127 cases valued at $2,173,373.

For the same year Mississippi packed 218,194 cases of shrimp valued at $1,058,572, as compared with a total United States pack of 943,614 cases valued at $3,811,354. Mississippi packing approximately one-fourth of all shrimp in the nation.

The Mississippi Coast's fishing industry is an ancient one, but only in the last half century have conditions been favorable to development of a national market.

The industry had its beginning with the Biloxi and Pascagoula Indians, who have left to today's residents long shell banks to mark the sites where they camped and fished.

The first oyster packing plants were established in the late 1870's; the first shrimp canneries soon after. The growth of the business in Biloxi caused a jump in population from 194 in 1870 to 5,467 in 1930.

Descendants of early French explorers—the exiled Acadians of Louisiana—and a hardy Slav stock cradled in the seaways of the Adriatic now make up the colony of fishermen who comb the reefs and waters for a world's food delicacies.

A half-century ago the sea-loving Slavs came from established plants on the Maryland shore to work in the Coast's rapidly-expanding industry. At first they stayed only through the fishing season. But as the business grew they established themselves with it and reared large families in an old-world tradition, preserving their romantic love for song, dance, and adventure.

Filtering slowly into the expanding packing enterprises, especially in the middle 1920's, came French Acadians from dying sawmill towns of Louisiana.

With a laughing contempt for danger they spread their sails in the teeth of the sea, their romantic recklessness contrasting with the solemn dignity of their land-lubber neighbors. To their eagerness both surrendered—the sea and the neighbors.

Today the Mississippi Coast is as proud of its picturesque fishermen as it is of the mighty industry they have built.

Fishing is not only their livelihood. It is their very life. They fish with religious fervor—literally. Hardy two-fisted men who love a working schooner better than a millionaire loves a yacht, they take heaven in partnership with their ventures.

Before departing for the shrimping grounds each August, they gather in the still waters of a quiet cove, near a white cross commemorating the landing of the first settlers, and anchor their boats to hear the solemn ritual of the Roman Catholic church. A priest steps from boat to boat to bless each craft and each occupant.

In the three Mississippi Coast counties, Hancock, Harrison, and Jackson, there are slightly more than 16,000 people directly or indirectly connected with the fishing industry.

More than twenty large, modern shrimp and oyster packing plants are employed and are supplied with material by 5,000 workers operating between 700 and 800 boats. Although the industry is concentrated at Biloxi, there are plants at Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, Gulfport, Ocean Springs, Pascagoula and Moss Point.

One of the nation's greatest commercial oyster reefs is the Square Handkerchief reef offshore from Pass Christian, a half mile wide and extending nearly seven miles into the Sound.

Although improvement in packing and canning methods has been constant, the whole industry has undergone what amounts to a transformation since the New Deal established federal inspection of the plants. Numerous small family enterprises have given way to larger plants where the most rigid sanitation is strictly enforced.

When for example the small shrimp trawlers go out into the Louisiana marshes from Biloxi, fast freighters pick up their catch at the end of each day's fishing and rush it to the coast across the Gulf back to the packing plants. Utmost precautions are taken to keep the oyster reefs free from contamination.

Fishing methods have progressed almost as far as packing methods in the last fifty years. Selling schooners have given way to power boats or auxiliary schooners. The 1200-foot seines which fishermen in shifts used to draw in a circle around a school of shrimp have been supplemented by funnel-shaped trawl nets which form a bag when towed behind the gas-line-powered trawlers. A prohibition against power dredging on Mississippi oyster reefs has recently been lifted; and now steel nets dragged along the bottom by the boats and lifted by windlasses are being substituted for the long-handled tongs with which oystermen in tiny skiffs formerly raised the underwater reefs.

While there are no plants on the Mississippi Coast to pack fish other than shrimp and oysters, a large quantity of mullet, speckled trout, redfish, pompano, etc., are shipped fresh each year by fishermen who catch them in seines and trawl nets.

The United States consumes 30,000,000 bushels of oysters every year at 300,000,000 meals. The Gulf States alone produce annually over 100,000,000 pounds of shrimp for the tables of America. Such is the magnitude of the mighty industry of which the Mississippi Coast is the capital.

This is the fourth of a series of semi-monthly presentations of the Mississippi Advertising Commission. The fifth will feature truck crops.

U. S. SPOTLIGHT ON STATE FAIR; MANY INQUIRIES

That the Mississippi Free State Fair, to be held in Jackson October 10-16 is attracting national attention is evidenced by inquiries received by exposition officials.

An Illinois tourist agency has written Miss Mabel Stire, secretary-manager of the State Fair, asking for copies of the tentative program to furnish interested clients in the Middle West.

The Illinois agency reports having routed 27 parties of mid-west tourists to the 1937 State Fair with prospects of an even larger number visiting the Jackson event this season.

From a New York travel agency also comes an inquiry regarding State Fair plans.

With the completion of transcontinental highways through Mississippi, the number of out-of-state visitors to the Jackson fair is expected to continue to increase. Exposition officials estimate 1937 attendance at 400,000 with prospects of more than half a million visitors this year.
